

Assistant/ Associate Professor of Clinical Psychology

George Fox University announces a full-time, tenure-track faculty position in the Graduate School of Clinical Psychology (9-month contract). Our department operates with a community-focused ethos, an interpersonally collaborative and supportive approach, and a high bar for excellence. The faculty team is dynamic and innovative, and the program has long been well-respected nationally (e.g. strong match rates to APA-Accredited and APPIC internships). The department is supported by a strong community network and an on-site community health clinic. Further, each faculty member has one day per week for dedicated clinical work/private practice. Finally, the department runs three optional specialty training tracks in addition to the Generalist curriculum. These include Assessment Track, Child and Adolescent Psychology Track, and Primary Care Track.

Job Responsibilities

The responsibilities of this position would include :

- teaching doctoral students in clinical psychology coursework.
- leading a small clinical oversight group once a week, with students across various levels of training.
- leading a focused research team of 8-12 students across various levels of training.
- All university faculty are engaged in administrative service to the department or on university committees (e.g. Admissions Committee, Orientation Committee, sponsorship of Student-led Special Interest Groups, etc.).
- Tenure-track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an independent research agenda.

George Fox University, a Christ-centered community, prepares students spiritually, academically, and professionally to think with clarity, act with integrity, and serve with passion. George Fox University is an institution that values diversity as an essential dimension of God's design for human communities. In seeking to become a more inclusive community, we highly encourage applications from individuals who can help us achieve our diversity and faith integration goals.

Qualifications

- PsyD or Ph.D. in a relevant field required
- Demonstrated excellence in teaching is essential
- A record of relevant scholarship is essential
- Oregon licensed or license-eligible psychologist
- A commitment to working with a diverse population of students is essential; demonstrated experience in this area is preferred.

All applicants must express a personal commitment to Jesus Christ and express their Christian testimony in a statement. In addition, faculty agree to live in agreement with the Community Lifestyle Statement and affirm the theological commitments expressed in the Statement of Faith.

Candidates must have legal authority to permanently work in the U.S. Further, when employed by George Fox University, employees must be a resident of one of the following states: Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho, New York, Ohio, or Texas.

Salary and Rank

Appointment at the Assistant Professor level is anticipated, though candidates with significant teaching experience at previous institutions may be considered for appointment at the rank of Associate Professor. Salary and benefits are competitive with comparable institutions.

How to apply

Application Procedures - kindly apply only through the website link:

Click HERE to apply

When completing the online application, please upload the following as Word or .pdf documents in the section marked Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, and Essay Requirement:

- Letter of interest
- Curriculum Vitae (CV)
- Faith and learning essay*
- Statement of teaching philosophy
- Concise description of research plans

Other supporting materials may be requested at a later stage of the review process.

Interested applicants are encouraged to apply at once. Review of applications will begin on a rolling basis and continue until the position is filled.

This position is subject to close at any time, regardless of the date on the posting.

Questions may be directed to: Celeste Jones, PsyD, ABCCAP, Graduate School of Clinical Psychology Program Director, cjones@georgefox.edu

*INTEGRATION OF FAITH AND LEARNING ESSAY – application link will give more explanation